

Canada's Universities

IMAGINE THE POSSIBILITIES

The Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada is the national association representing public and not-for-profit universities in Canada. It currently has 95 member institutions in more than 80 communities across Canada.

AUCC is a leader in the development of public policy on higher education in Canada and advocates for higher education and research as key priorities on the national political agenda. The association also monitors and analyzes issues such as enrolment, university funding, research and internationalization of universities.

Membership in AUCC is recognized as an indicator of an institution that offers high-quality university education and a research-rich learning environment. Criteria for membership and a list of members can be found on our website www.aucc.ca.

Useful information available from AUCC includes:

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS: The Directory of Canadian Universities is the authoritative guide to Canadian universities. This annual publication and online index are widely used as a reference tool at embassies and schools around the world to help prospective students find high quality academic programs at Canadian institutions. The Directory is available in print or online at www.aucc.ca/DCU.

UNIVERSITY NEWS: University Affairs is Canada's magazine on higher education and the most trusted news source for Canada's universities. The magazine and website (universityaffairs.ca) offer articles on issues of interest to scholars and researchers. UA is also the number one source for academic job listings in Canada.

RESEARCH: AUCC's research team provides statistics and analysis on many aspects of higher education (university enrolment, faculty hiring, research funding) to member institutions, government, the business community and the general public. Current publications and online summaries can be found at http://www.aucc.ca/policy/research/index_e.html

SCHOLARSHIPS: AUCC manages more than 160 scholarship, fellowship and internship programs on behalf of governments, foundations and private sector companies. See: <https://juno.aucc.ca/wes/hes.aspx?pg=834>

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS: The association also oversees development projects based on partnerships between Canadian and Southern universities as well as internships and exchange programs. See: http://www.aucc.ca/programs/intprograms/index_e.html
